

GINDS

An art project that explores the limits of Amsterdam Zuid, an art project that listens to the border of the district. GINDS connects here and there.

GINDS is an art project about sound and listening. A project that scans the boundary of the district Amsterdam Zuid on sounds. Sound knows no bounds. Through GINDS you can listen to what is happening on the other side of the border.

City limits are determined. Sometimes a natural border, a river or a mountain, and sometimes by a line on a map. This creates two areas: an area within the border ours and an area outside the border, theirs.

You can stand between the two large soundhorns and listen to what's happening 100 meters away, on the other side of the border. The locations are chosen on the quality of environmental sounds. That what you hear and see does not seem consistent with where you are. GINDS shows and investigates the special characteristics of border areas.
